FedEx Ground Details:

- FedEx Ground has selected a site in South San Francisco for a new 418,000 square-foot distribution center that is scheduled to open in May 2014.
- The new FedEx Ground facility is part of the company's nationwide network expansion plan in which 11 major hubs have been added and 500 other facilities have expanded or relocated around the country since 2005.
- FedEx Ground has accelerated service by at least one day to more than 70 percent of the United States since 2003. FedEx Ground is faster to more overall locations and FedEx Home Delivery is faster to more residential locations than any other ground carrier. The company delivers more than 82 percent of packages in three days or less, more than 62 percent of packages in two days or less and more than 24 percent by the next business day.
- The volume of packages FedEx Ground handles every business day has doubled in the past 10 years.
- FedEx Ground specializes in cost-effective, small-package ground shipping, offering dependable business-to-business delivery and convenient residential services. With a network of more than 500 distribution hubs and local pickup-and-delivery stations, FedEx Ground employs approximately 59,000 people. Its operations are supported by about 9,000 independent businesses that pick up, deliver and transport more than 5.6 million packages daily throughout the United States and Canada. The company reported annual revenue of $9.5 billion in fiscal year 2012.
